WILLIAM GREENLEAF ELIOT

Born August 5, 1811, in New Bedford, Mass.

Son of William Greenleaf and Margaret Dawes Eliot of New Bedford, Mass., and Washington, D. C.

Married June 29, 1837, Abby Adams Cranch.

Educated at the Friends Academy, New Bedford, at Columbian College of Washington, D. C., 1826-1830, and Harvard Divinity School, 1831-1834, (D.D. 1854). LL.D., Harvard. In 1830-1831 he was employed in the Postal Department at Washington. Ordained Minister of the Unitarian Church, August 17, 1834.

Resided in St. Louis, Mo., from 1834 to 1887.

Minister of the First Congregational Church (Church of the Messiah, Unitarian) from 1834 to 1870; and thereafter pastor emeritus. President of Board of Directors of Washington University, 1853-1887; Chancellor of Washington University, 1870-1887. From his private means he gave liberally to the building and endowment funds of Washington University.

During the Civil War, founder and member of Western Sanitary Commission, giving aid to sick and wounded of the armies. Organized the Mission Free School of the Church of the Messiah, 1856. Aided the foundation of Academy of Science of St. Louis, 1843. Member of Public School Board, 1848 (President, 1848-1849). Was largely instrumental in obtaining the first public school taxes, 1850. Aided in organization of Colored Orphans' Home, Soldiers' Orphans' Home, Memorial Home, Blind Girls' Home, Women's Christian Home and other charities. Between 1870 and 1876 he fought effectively against commercialized vice in Missouri. An early advocate of Prohibition and Woman Suffrage.

Author of Doctrines of Christianity; Lectures to Young Men; Lectures to Young Women (re-edited as Home Life and Influence); Discipline of Sorrow; The Story of Archer Alexander.

Died January 23, 1887, at Pass Christian, Miss.

See William Greenleaf Eliot, by Charlotte C. Eliot (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1904).

"His best monument is to be found in the many educational and philanthropic institutions of St. Louis, to which he gave the disinterested labor of his life."
